The Port, Nice
by James Longueville PS RBSA
oil 8" x 12"

After 35 years, this will be my final Collection of first-class work by first-class painters, personally selected by me for you to enjoy. Jeffrey Archer was once asked, when his last book was finished, "Why does it have to be the last?" to which he replied, "The clever thing is to know when it's time to go."

I have had enormous pleasure bringing together this final Exhibition of superb paintings by many of your favourite artists, alongside a couple of exciting new painters for the gallery. I hope they will delight you and offer you a final opportunity to discover something truly exceptional to take home.

Choose a painting that you will love long after the Exhibition has closed, something that will give you pleasure every single day for years to come. The quality of the work is outstanding, the prices extremely reasonable and, as you know, payment can be spread over a period if that helps secure a painting you love.

Please bring your friends to browse the Collection in the unique and welcoming surroundings of my home. And as we say farewell, enjoy a glass of wine, coffee or tea, accompanied by some delicious nibbles. There will also be paintings displayed at the exhibition additional to those featured in this brochure. I do hope you will join me for this very special Final Exhibition.
